

EDMUND S. MUSKIE

Democratic Vice Presidential Nominee

CONSTITUTION—Article II

In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President, and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed or a President shall be elected.

(Section I, Clause 6)

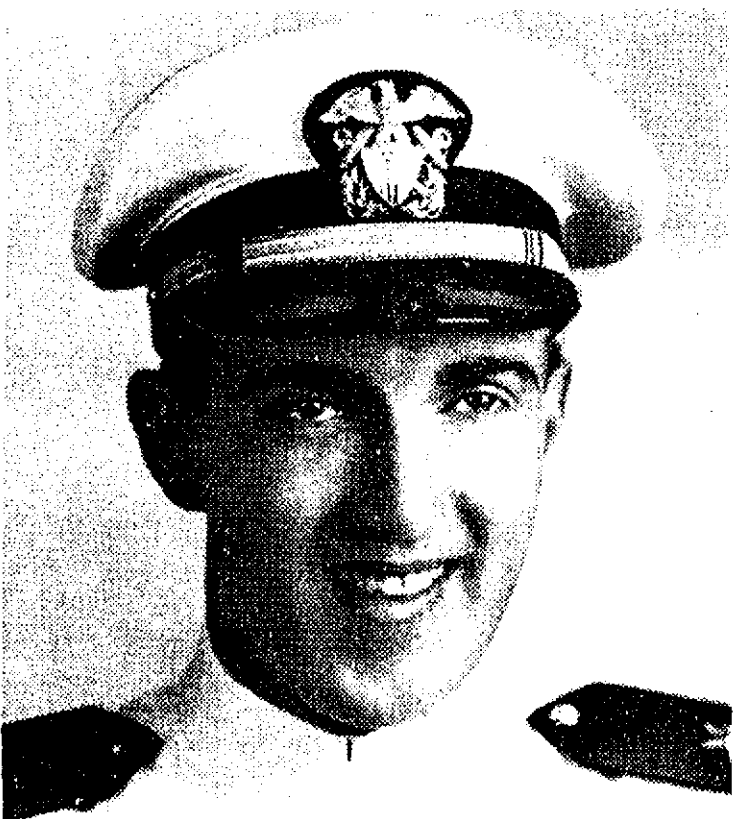

(Amendment 25, ratified February 10, 1967, ends years of debate over the vague "disability" clause, by defining how the Vice President may become Acting President. It also provides for the appointment of a Vice President if there is a vacancy in that office.)

Senator Edmund Sixtus Muskie of Maine, 54, was born in Rumford, Me., the son of a Polish tailor (originally named Marciszewski). He worked his way through Bates College, won a Phi Beta Kappa key and went on to win a degree from Cornell Law School in 1939. He spent the war years as a junior naval officer, in the Atlantic and Pacific. Back in Waterville he joined the Democratic Party and local leaders invited him to become a candidate for the State Legislature. He was elected to the Maine House of Representatives in 1946, rose to be Minority Leader, and, in 1952, Maine's Democratic National Committeeman. After recovering from a broken back in 1953, he won the 1954 election and became Maine's first Democratic Governor in 20 years; he was re-elected in 1956. In 1958 he became the first popularly elected Democratic Senator in Maine's history. His subsequent course in politics has brought him recognition for his effectiveness. President Johnson has referred to him a "a real powerhouse." He has worked actively for air and water pollution controls and is considered an expert on urban problems. When he came to Washington his ambition, still unfulfilled, was to deal with foreign affairs. He supports the Administration's policy on Vietnam.

In 1948 he married Jane Gray of Waterville, and they now have five children: Steven, 19, Ellen, 18, Melinda, 11, Martha, 9, and Edmund II, 7.

New officers were elected for 1969 and will be installed at the November meeting. Mrs. Douglas Waters will be hostess at a pot luck lunch to be served in her home. All members are urged to attend and guests are invited.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

Dear Helen: It isn't only "Preachers' Kids" who get bare-bottom spankings. I can't blame "P.K." for wanting to run away from her hellfire and damnation father. Don't suggest that a more cooperative response from her will change him. That kind never changes!

Consider the girl (me) whose parents constantly tell her to set an example of dignity and modesty for the younger children. Then they tell those children hear detailed instructions about preparing herself for spanking — and they administer it where everyone can hear the sound effects.

The girl will have quite enough trouble, at best, seeing why it should be right for one man, her father to undress her at will, but so outrageous for another. And somehow the father who gives the beatings will NEVER understand how wrong he is!

I'm glad you see the teen side of it when parents are monstrously wrong. Otherwise you would be like another newspaper advice columnist who held forth that great length about how someday all kids would come to realize their folks were right all the time. . . .

... And had the misfortune to find this printed on the same page, same issue, with an article on the "battered child syndrome." — P.L.

Dear Helen: I was shocked at your answer to "Preacher's Kid." She is nothing but a trouble-maker, sneaking out and bringing disgrace on her father. No wonder he never lets her go out after dark. If the first time she tries it she ends up at a beer party! My father would not only have spanked me, I wouldn't have had any hide left on my bare bottom. She'd just better pray out loud an hour a day. Maybe it will help keep her from leading her sisters astray. Why shouldn't her father spank her in front of everyone at the police station? She got what was coming to her! Even if she's 17, she must still obey. Rebels have to be punished. — A

JFK's Mother Wishes Jackie Happiness

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP) — Mrs. Rose Kennedy said today she wishes Jacqueline Kennedy "great happiness" in her forthcoming marriage to Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis. The mother of Jacqueline's first husband, the late President John F. Kennedy, said she learned of the marriage plans last week when "Jackie called me."

Mrs. Kennedy commented in response to a reporter's question after she left St. Francis Xavier Church, where she attended morning Mass. She had no comment on whether she would attend the wedding.

G.H. Florida of Osceola Succumbs

OSCEOLA, Ark. (AP) — George H. Florida, 65, a prominent Osceola businessman, died early today in Tenn., where he had gone to attend a funeral of a 94-year-old uncle.

Florida and his brother, Andrew Florida, also of Osceola, were charged in a prolonged suit several years ago with more than $7 million in back taxes.

The case was settled out of court after several years of litigation.

INSPIRED, perhaps, by the colors of autumn, Gloria O'Neil of Akron, Ohio, works on a painting for sophomore art class at Kent State University, where she is a student.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH
Two Main Reasons For Tongue Numbness
By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE—Ever since my lower right wisdom tooth was extracted, the right side of my tongue has been numb. It has been that way for about five weeks and isn't getting better. Can you tell me what happened? When it will get better?—JOEL E.

ANSWER—There are two main reasons for numbness, or paresthesia, of the tongue after extraction of a lower wisdom tooth: 1) damage to the tongue nerve during "novocaine" injection; 2) severing of the nerve during surgical removal of the tooth.

1. Anesthesia to numb the lower jaw is called block anesthesia. The injection is made in the corner of the jaw behind the last molar tooth. With this one injection, all sensation is blocked from the point of injection to the middle of the chin, and also including half the tongue.
Not infrequently, when a lower block injection is given, the patient experiences a sudden, sharp prick at the tip of his tongue. This is an indication that the needle, during its insertion, has grazed or nicked the tongue nerve.
If only the sheath of the nerve has been nicked, the numbness wears off when the anesthesia wears off. But, as sometimes happens, if the needle penetrates the body of the nerve, numbness may last for many days, even weeks. This is rare.
2. Paresthesia of the tongue following extraction of a wisdom tooth is usually more serious because it results from nerve damage and may last for weeks, months or years and, in some cases, may be permanent.
The tongue nerve lies in gum tissue, fairly close to the wisdom teeth. In surgical removal of an impacted wisdom tooth, it's possible to sever this nerve, causing numbness in half the tongue until the cut

West opened the ace of spades against South's five-heart contract and shifted to the four of clubs after looking at dummy and his partner's three of spades.

The spade lead cost the defense a trick because the king was now set up for a diamond discard and the club shift cost a second trick since it went right up to South's ace-queen. After that pleasant start, South wasted no time bringing home the game contract. He started by leading a trump to dummy's ace. He paused a second when West showed out. Then he led a club to his ace and ruffed a club with the king of hearts to prevent a possible overruff. When East followed to this third club, all South had to do was to play trumps and let East take his queen whenever he was ready.

East was rather annoyed with his partner. He pointed out that, while that spade lead wasn't bad, just unfortunate, the club shift at trick two was sheer giveaway.

West said nothing at the time but he submitted the hand to us for analysis. We don't particularly approve of the club shift but the major blame should fall on East. It is possible to visualize a South hand with the queen-jack of diamonds, queen of hearts and no ace of clubs that would produce five hearts unless East and West cashed two club tricks right away. So the three of spades play did give West a problem. East should have seen that, as far as he was concerned, the best line of defense would be a spade continuation and East should have invited that continuation by playing his eight of spades, not the three. Then, if West shifted, the onus would rest entirely on West's shoulders.

Fairview In 20 to 14 Win Over Hope

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Oh frustration, when will you leave us alone? Huh? You made the difference in a football game last night, as the Fairview Cardinals passed our Hope Bobcats on the home stretch and won 20-14 on Hope's Homecoming in Hammond Stadium.

It was one heckuva football game, and for nearly three quarters the high and mighty Fairview Cards got pushed around by a dogged bunch of Bobcats. A 30-point underdog in the consensus, big Hope gave 'em a battle they won't be forgetting anytime soon.

And as if that weren't enough, my tape of the broadcast of the game, which gives information for this Saturday article, simply did not record because of a technical malfunction of sorts. For a consolation, this writer becomes a prophet by picking the exact score of the game at 20-14. Only I picked Hope to win.

The loss threw a damper on Bobcat title hopes in 4-AA West, with a 1-2 mark and two divisional contests remaining. Fairview moved to 3-0, now 7-0 for the year, and for the first time, somebody gave them a decent game.

Early in the game the large crowd knew that Hope was fired up, holding Fairview to one first down in the opening period. The Bobcats' second possession was the time to prove, and they did just that. Taking over at the Hope 35, the Cats got the big play early when tailback Jerry McWilliams raced away for 34 yards to the Fairview 26.

A short pass to Mike Monroe picked up the next first down at the 12 on a fourth-down play, and three plays later Hope had a first down at the Cardinal 2. Massanelli called three running plays, and they gained nothing. The last one ended the first quarter at a scoreless tie, but the crucial fourth down play was yet to come.

When the time came, Massanelli faked twice in the middle and walked over end for the score. Ronny Brown booted the first PAT, and Hope almost unbelievably led 7-0.

Fairview took the kickoff, and on second down lost a fumble to Hope at the Cardinal 30. This was a head-shaker though, as off-sides was ruled on Hope. Fairview proceeded to march down to the Hope 24, when QB Lewis Pryor rolled left on the option.

Picking his way to the sideline, Pryor made it and was gone to the end zone for a 24-yard score to cap the 76-yard march. Fullback Jimmy Harris kicked the conversion to tie it up at 7-7 with 5:46 left in the half, but things were just getting started.

It took Hope exactly 87 seconds to score again. Massanelli hit David Still, who made it a 63-yard score to cap the 76-yard yard play by running all the way to the Fairview seven. So while everyone settled back to see if Hope could punch it across, McWilliams took a pitchout on first down and swept around the weak side into the end zone.

Seemingly impossible, but Hope was leading Fairview 14-7 with 4:19 left. Quickly Hope held the Cards again, and took over after wide open on the Bobcat 30. On first down Massanelli had Sidney Waller wide open on the sideline for an apparent TD, but the pass carried Waller out of bounds. So on second down Larry faded to pass again, and Fairview line-backer Kenny Patterson baited it into the air. Kenny came down with the ball, stepped outside and was gone for 40 yards and the evening six-pointer. This one hurt Hope badly, but it was easier when Harris missed the extra point to leave Hope ahead 14-13 at the half.

For most of the third segment neither squad could move, until Fairview suddenly began coming up with the third-down plays.

With a 3rd and eight from midfield, Pryor dropped back to pass, then ran up the middle and skipped down to the Hope 24. Grinding running plays kept them going, until Jimmy Harris scored the go-ahead touchdown from three yards out. This time his kick was also good, making it 20-14 with 1:31 on the clock in the third quarter.

So now the Bobcats were beginning to realize that they had better score again. With tired, exhausted boys, the Cats began working at the fresh Fairview defense. They got their last chance from the Hope 30 with 5:50 remaining in the game, and they nearly made good use of it.

A couple of first downs moved down to the Card 35, but here Fairview rose up with two minutes left and held the Bobcats on three downs. On fourth down a good fake punt came off, but Rodney Jones was stopped half a yard short of the first down well.

What a game the Bobcats played, actually playing neck-to-neck with the No. 7 team in the state. Better depth and that potent inside running game constantly kept the Cardinals out of trouble, but the Cats gave it the best effort they could possibly produce.

Jerry McWilliams had his best game with 105 big yards on 20 carries, followed next by Rodney Jones, who ran ten times for 38 yards. QB Massanelli ran four times for 30 yards in all, and Mike Monroe gathered 11 yards on five trips. Pryor used the option to roll up 95 yards in 13 attempts, but highly-praised Jimmy Harris ran 22 times for only 77 yards and one TD. Rounding out their leaders was Perry Johnson, who had a 36-yard night with ten carries.

Once again the defense must be commended, shutting out the opposition in the fourth quarter for the sixth straight time. The offensive blocking was its best ever in the first half, though not quite as effective in the later going. Bobcat Ronny Brown slightly re-injured his side, but enough for the coaches to hold him out of the second half completely.

There is no way on earth that anyone could not say the Bobcats deserved to win, but Fairview stuck to their reputation of being the luckiest team alive. Now for the letdown week all the Bobcats travel to Magnolia to take on the 7-0 Panthers, and another chance to knock off a kingpin.

The Frustration of Marty Domres

By MARTY RALBOVSKY

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The guy wore a pork-pie hat, Indian moccasins and pants that long ago lost their crease.

Thick, white beads draped his neck. Sideburns flowed down both sides of his face, connecting into a scraggly beard. Ben Franklin glasses rested on his nose. He could be 20. Or 30. The accessories beclouded his age.

"Football? You kidding me. Don't bug me about those jocks. I hate football. It's animalistic."

The girl wore a brown mini-skirt. Black stockings clung to a set of skinny legs. Blue triangles dangled from each ear and straight black hair flowed the length of her back.

"Football? Ha. That's a stone groove."

A what? "It's a beautiful, wonderful, scintillating, invigorating thing for this country, the world and mankind in general."

She laughed aloud . . . and walked away.

They are students at Columbia University. They resent being called hippies ("That's out."). They prefer moderates. ("It's more descriptive of our basic natures.") They are not football fans.

In fact, the student atmosphere at Columbia is not exactly conducive to football at all.

Which leaves Martin Francis Domres perplexed. He is a neatly coifed, clean-shaven All-Ivy quarterback at Columbia, holder of many school passing records, and a likely high choice in the next NFL-AFL college draft.

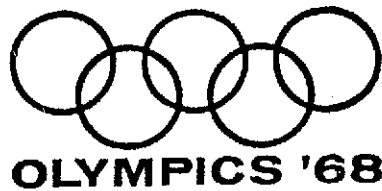

But his presence at Morningside Heights is puzzling. The offensive displays on campus are clearly overshadowing his on the football field.

"It was my decision to come to Columbia," he says. "I had offers from several colleges after my senior season in high school. I was impressed with New York City. That sold me on Columbia. The thought of an Ivy League education helped, too."

Still, the lack of student football interest frustrates him.

"It bothers me, all right. I'd say two-thirds of the entire undergraduate student body at Columbia doesn't care much for football. Everybody

OLYMPICS '68

PARIS, France — (NEA) — The madames and mademoiselles on the French Olympic team will be, in the grand Gallic manner, well-dressed and well-rubbed.

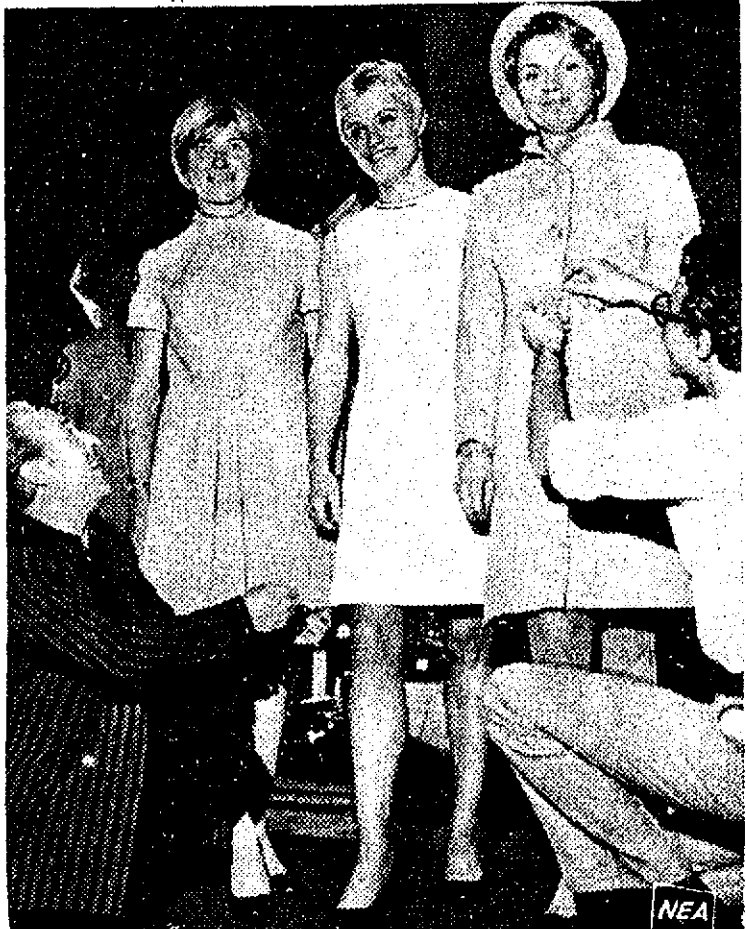

Now how could any dyed-in-the-Tricolor group of French women make any trip, even to the local boucherie, without first being outfitted in the most modish threads? The femmes solved this problem by getting a complete Olympic wardrobe designed by dynamic Jacques Esterel, called the "go-go couturier of the young."

Through the ages, French ladies have earned considerable reputations as experts in the fleshy arts. The current Olympians uphold this tradition, too. Three qualified masseuses will accompany the gals to the Games in October.

Mireille Delsout will head the trio of muscle beaters. She is a 28-year-old professor of therapeutics and also head of the "International Dance Center" which, under her direction, has grown from a

"It is a remarkable thing how far French girls have come in athletics. Twenty years ago most sports were unknown to them. Then suddenly girls in the white collar class found out some sports don't need a lot of money. Games like tennis, golf, riding, fencing, for example, needed special outfits and other expenses. But they discovered that for running, swimming and jumping all that was necessary were shorts, shirts and sweaters. So the boom."

But when the gals can get clothes free, well . . . The special wardrobe for the 36-member Olympic squad consists of five pieces, from one of the country's haute couture sa-

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A team with few established players has season ticket holders without seats and a manager who's got 10 million bucks to spend and is nibbling his nails about it. "This is the first time I've ever been nervous about anything in baseball," said Gene Mauch, manager of the new Montreal franchise of the National League. "I've got responsibility for $10 million. That could keep a person awake nights."

What Mauch hopes to do with the money is to purchase chattel that will keep the city's two hostile cultures, French and English, absorbed in baseball rather than in each other's jugular veins.

"The problem is you just can't buy real good ballplayers," he said. "You've got to trade for them. People don't want money. They want ballplayers."

So here's a guy who wants to part with barrels of cash, and afraid that no one's going to want any. "We don't have any youth movement as such, nor try necessarily to get some name players to boost the gate," said Mauch. "We're interested only in value."

Mauch said that as a player and later as a manager (his big league managerial career extended from 1960 to last year with Philadelphia), he knew what he was doing, so was never nervous. But fitting around with pockets stuffed with currency is another matter.

"If nothing else," he said, "the people in Montreal are really hungry for baseball. We've already sold 2,500 season tickets and the people don't even know where they'll be sitting. Seating plans haven't been drawn up yet."

There is one comparison, however, between the current situation and when he took over in Philadelphia after the first game of the season: No players. (Eddie Sawyer resigned after opening day. "I'm 49 years old," said Sawyer, "and I want to live to 50.")

"I started from scratch in Philadelphia, too," said Mauch. "Well, we did have a couple good players. Let's see, there was Johnny Callison and, uh, Johnny Callison and—well, a couple others."

As the youngest manager in the majors then (he was 34), Mauch struggled with a club that finished last on merit for his first two years. By 1964 he had a pennant contender and the Phils led the league by 6½ games with only 12 games to play. But finished in a tie for second. "It was like watching someone drown," said Mauch. The Phillies never got close again.

In Montreal, Mauch expects no problem with language, though half the town speaks French. "I don't speak French," he said, "and don't think I have to. There is a universal language. Everyone knows what a smile means. And everyone knows what a frown means."

Yet nonvocal language has been as alien to Mauch as land is to a salmon. He has been one of baseball's fiercest bench jockeys. In a game against Houston in 1967, for example, he chivied Astro Mike Cuellar until the pitcher charged him in the dugout. The brawl was broken up before it started, but Cuellar, who had a shutout going at the time, blew his cool and gave up a run. But Houston won 2-1 in the 11th, anyway.

Eddie Mathews, then a third baseman for Houston, said at the time: "I respect Mauch's right to agitate, but you can't call a person any name you want and expect him to take it. He overstepped his boundaries."

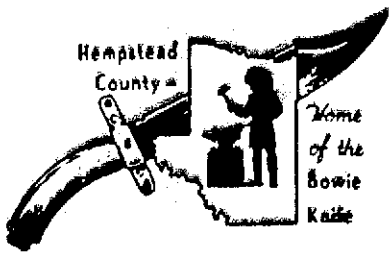

Mauch replied impishly: "All I was trying to do was win the game."

It seems, then, that Mauch was correct in saying there won't be a language barrier in Montreal. All National League players know some English.

They Don't Know

Looking at all of this disturbance in the colleges, not only in the United States, but around the world, we have come to the conclusion that the students don't have any idea what they want. One group seems to want one thing, another, another and so it goes. Years ago the older people were sold the idea that if we would provide better schools, better and more scholarships, the junior colleges etc., making it possible for students to continue their education that we would see some exceptional changes in the young people.

All of these things have been provided and we certainly have seen some changes. Instead of taking advantage of this change, applying themselves to the schools, they want to cause trouble and fight to keep other students away from the schools. It's now time that the few be kicked out and kept out so that those wishing an education can get it and our civilization keep on with its progress. — Winter Haven (Fla.) Daily News-Chief

Music For Drivers

A Kansas State University professor tested drivers and announced that they drove fastest when listening to slow music; turned the steering wheel more often and used the accelerator more often when listening to snappy Tijuana Brass music, and weaved off straight course most often when not listening to music at all.

But even those who have all that straight cannot understand the fellow ahead in the lane. What radio station plays, simultaneously, slow music, snappy music, and no music at all? — Shreveport (La.) Journal

Doing Your Thing

An interest in Emerson is reported to have mounted with the claim that the essayist used the phrase "Do your thing," at least as published in the Macmillan Modern Readers' volume of Emerson's "Essays" published in 1926.

However, dogged and no doubt intrigued investigators have turned up the stuffy fact that in all other editions sighted, the phrase is "Do your work." Nowadays, the two can constitute a very different proposition, alas. — Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times

Jacqueline's Public Image Will Change

NEW YORK (AP) — In those rare times when America creates its own royalty, it lavishes upon the chosen few all the fierce, jealous affection that practical people render unto dreams.

For this adulation, Americans exact obedience. The rules are few but firm, and paramount is the preservation, at all costs, of the public image we know and love.

Jacqueline Kennedy's reign has flourished for nearly eight years. It began early in her White House life when she brought a rare youth, charm and beauty to the highest seat of government. It gained stature when she met shattering tragedy with a dignity and restraint that moved millions to compassionate, admiring tears. Her lonely widowhood, circumscribed as it is by the careful rearing of her two fatherless children—Caroline, now 10, and John Jr., 7—and the perpetuating of her assassinated husband's memory, is in the tradition of the great dowager queens.

Today at 39 she is perhaps the most admired woman in the world.

Escape Try Is Thwarted

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — James Norton, 17, an inmate here, attempted to escape Thursday but was captured by trustys, prison authorities said.

Norton, serving six years for grand larceny from Jefferson County, hid in a cotton field while on a work detail, but was discovered about 40 minutes later.

FOUR SUPREME COURT APPOINTMENTS could fall the way of the next president. Chief Justice Earl Warren, 77, has said he was eager to return to private life after a half-century of public service, and although none has indicated publicly any retirement plans, three other justices, because of age or physical impairment, may leave the court during the next administration. Outlined, from the left, are Justices John M. Harlan, 69; Hugo L. Black, 82; Warren and William O. Douglas, 69. Harlan, appointed to the high court in 1955, has had vision; he needs three law clerks to read to him. Black, appointed in 1937, is the dean of sitting justices. Douglas, on the Court since 1939, has suffered serious heart trouble and now uses an electrical "Pacemaker" device to keep his heartbeat regular. Other members of the Court are William J. Brennan, seated right, and standing from the left, Justices Abe Fortas, Potter Stewart, Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall.

NUMBER TWO, so it will have to try harder. This is the HMS Repulse, Britain's second Polaris submarine, leaving to join the Royal Navy three months ahead of schedule. After a trial and workup period, the sub should be fully operational by mid-1969.

Police Pelted by Bottle Tossing Youths

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Rock and bottle-throwing gangs of youths pelted police cars, smashed windows and looted several business places early today in this city's predominantly Negro East Side.

Two multiple-alarm fires broke out.

Fire Commissioner Robert B. Howard said one fire on the East Side, which caused $150,000 damage, was started by vandals.

Police said a second fire, which caused $125,000 damage to a West Side church, was set by burglars.

The disturbances carried over from Thursday, when hundreds of young Negroes left their schools to participate in a rally called by comedian Dick Gregory or to attend the funeral of a teen-aged Negro who was shot fatally by an unidentified motorist after third-party presidential candidate George C. Wallace campaigned here Oct. 4. The youth died Monday.

Gregory is a write-in presidential candidate of the Freedom and Peace party.

Some people were reported injured during the disturbances, but none seriously.

Police made at least 10 arrests on charges of malicious mischief, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct and possession of stolen property.

Hazen to Get a New Plant

HAZEN, Ark. (AP) — Airline Homes, Inc., a subsidiary of Curdon Industries, Inc., has decided to build a plant in Hazen's Industrial park area, ending four months of negotiation. Mayor Jerry J. Screeton says the plant will employ 125-150 persons when it opens. The firm produces mobile homes.

Beatle, Girl Arrested on Drug Charges

LONDON (AP) — John Lennon of the Beatles and his Japanese girl friend Yoko Ono were arrested today on drug charges. The couple was jailed at Paddington Green police station and then released on bail for appearance Saturday at Marylebone Magistrates Court.

They were also charged with obstructing police in the execution of a search warrant.

Lennon and Miss Ono were arrested at a Montagu Square apartment in London's Marylebone district.

They were charged with being in possession of a quantity of the forbidden drug cannabis, another term for marijuana.

Lennon's age was given by police as 28 and Miss Ono, charged under her married name of Cox, was said to be 34.

The arrests were made by officers of Scotland Yard's drug squad.

Next Week Dedicated to World's Business, Professional Women

The headless horseman of Washington Irving's creation is familiar to everyone who has ever read American literature. Perhaps less recognized by many, but nonetheless world-famous, is the headless Greek Goddess of Victory whose name is Nike.

Members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, who will observe National Business Women's Week October 20-26, recognize Nike as their symbol of strength, progress and triumph in advancing woman's place in the world. She is the central figure on their emblem and is the name given to the organization of high school girls sponsored by the B & PW.

The famous marble statue of Nike, the Winged Goddess of Victory, was erected on the Island of Samothrace in the northern part of the Aegean Sea to commemorate a naval victory in one of the wars between successors of Alexander the Great. She is represented as standing on a pedestal in the form of the prow of a trireme (ancient galley ship), blowing victorious strains on a trumpet which she held in her right hand. However, when the marble statue was discovered in 1863, it had no head or arms and it is uncertain how the above conclusion was derived.

Besides the central figure of Nike, the B & PW emblem also contain a scroll, a wand, a torch, and a ship. The scroll is one of Achievement which records the members' efforts and accomplishments as well as the spirit of learning which they bring to the solving of their every problem.

According to Greek Mythology, the Caduceus was a wand of wood or gold, twined with snakes and surmounted by wings, and possessed of magical powers over sleeping, waking and dreams and was carried by Mercury, the God of Light and Speed as a Messenger of Heaven. On the B & PW emblem it is the symbol of power. It is protected by the serpents of wisdom and heralds a

Hope to Lead Rose Parade

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Bob Hope will lead the 1969 Tournament of Roses parade next Jan. 1, then fly to the Far East for his annual Christmas tour of U.S. military bases.

The comedian, who led the parade as grand marshal in 1947, is the third person to be picked twice. The others were U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren in 1943 and 1955 and Richard M. Nixon in 1953 and 1960.

bright future for womankind.

The torch of Leadership lights the way along the paths of wisdom, devotion and interests in others. The ship of commerce shows that today's woman enters into all areas of industry and discovers opportunity in all parts of the world. She finds adventure in friendship abroad, promoting international understanding and building for peace.

The circle, embodying the entire emblem, represents the globe. Within this circle are the Nike and Caduceus, plus the Torch symbolizing the lamp of knowledge—the Ship, progress and commerce—the Scroll, scholarship and recognition—the Letters NFBPWC, the name of the organization, National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

WR Can't Condone Nor Condemn

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said today he could not condone Monday's shooting of 24 inmates at Cummins Prison Farm but that neither would he condemn anyone until the investigation of the incident is complete.

Rockefeller said he wanted to wait for a report from the FBI, which has been investigating at the prison since Tuesday.

The state Board of Correction has also investigated and the governor said the criminal investigation Department Division of the State Police had also sent a team of investigators to the prison.

Rockefeller said he had talked with John Haley, chairman of the board, but had not talked with prison Supt. Victor Urban or Associated Supt. Gary Haydis, who fired the first shot into a group of prisoners who were staging a sit-down strike.

Several shots of birdshot were fired into a crowd of about 75 inmates, wounding 24 of them.

"I cannot condone this (shooting) by any manner or means," Rockefeller said, adding that it would not be "appropriate for me to condemn Haydis or the prison administration or to just whitewash it."

The governor said there was evidence that the 27 ring leaders of the sit-down were former trusty guards.

He said there had been a certain amount of agitation in the campaign regarding the state prison and that it was possible that the former trustees may have felt they would have been restored to full power as trustees if the governor were defeated in the Nov. 5 election.

Astronauts Impatient to Come Home

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 7's aggravated astronauts, displaying increasing irritability and impatience as their space flight drones on, pass the three-quarter mark of their marathon 11-day mission today.

The fifth presentation of their space television show is set for 8:07 a.m. EDT when Apollo 7 zips over Mexico and the Gulf of Mexico.

The show was cancelled Friday because Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian Walter Cunningham had a busy schedule.

Now, with 90 per cent of their mission objectives achieved and only routine engineering tests planned the last three days, the astronauts are eager to come home.

The spacemen still have a good sense of humor. But their annoyance was evident throughout Friday when they argued with flight controllers, complained about equipment and criticized some "Mickey Mouse" procedures.

Officials on the ground said much of the impatience probably could be traced to the fact there are no more major flight plan highlights to break the monotony of engineering checks. They said the colds that have plagued all three most of the eight days have been no help.

Project officials kept a close watch on Hurricane Gladys, which pounded Florida Friday night. If the storm should threaten the Apollo recovery area, the landing site would be changed. Apollo 7 is scheduled to re-enter the atmosphere and parachute into the Atlantic Tuesday.

Except for re-entry, the last major milestone occurred Friday when Schirra successfully fired the big Apollo 7 engine for 66 seconds in a vital test of the powerplant that will steer astronauts to the moon.

Right after the test an argument began between ship and ground.

Schirra allowed the automatic guidance system to shut down the big engine and said he had been informed to do so by the ground.

He said that because of the automatic shutoff, the engine burned with slightly more power than planned.

"That's your big mistake in changing the rules in real time," Schirra said testily. "I hope you learned a lesson from that."

Flight Director Glynn Lunney disagreed, and told newsmen later: "In all the planning the engine was to be cut off manually. Either Wally forgot or he apparently didn't understand it."

The astronauts also mixed their criticism with light-hearted banter. Schirra said he was looking forward to getting home because "we're getting worried about all the paper work accumulating on our desk."

Freeman Says Nixon Threat to Farmers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said Thursday night that the presidential candidacy of Republican Richard M. Nixon posed a "very serious threat" to the farmers of the country.

"He (Nixon) has ducked the farm issue as adroitly as he has ducked many other issues in this campaign," Freeman said. "Frankly, I'm beginning to wonder how long the American voter is going to let him get away with it."

"He thinks he's got this election in the bag and apparently he believes he can continue to insult the farmers' intelligence by counting on them to vote for him on blind faith alone," Freeman said. "His campaign buttons ought to read 'Mum's the Word,' or 'Button Up For Safety.'"

Freeman made the comments at an appreciation dinner in his honor.

Would Cut Out Gambling Skills

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Nevada's Gaming Control Board is moving to cut down the number of house-financed players in the state's 84 licensed poker games.

"You don't have much of a chance in a game which is filled with skills and stakes players," Chairman Frank Johnson said Wednesday. "They can freeze you out of the game."

A skill is paid a salary by a casino "to stimulate the action" while a stakes player is given cash by a casino to sit in a game for the same reason, said Johnson. The difference? A skill doesn't profit from any winnings, while a stakes player gets a share, explains Johnson.

The board ordered a limit of two skills and barred stakes players in recommending approval for Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Herzog to operate a poker game at the D&N Club in Sparks. The board said it was not singling out Herzog, but wanted other poker game operators to take a hint.

Crank Visions Victory by 30,000 Votes

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial nominee Marion H. Crank predicted Thursday he would garner 30,000 to 40,000 votes more than Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in the Nov. 5 general election.

Crank said he had "lost some ground since the primary runoff but we're now gaining it back so that by the time the election rolls around, we'll be winners."

He made the remarks to newsmen while campaigning in El Dorado.

As usual, Crank aimed severe criticism at Rockefeller. He said Rockefeller is chairman of the Turnpike Commission, but that the governor had taken a lazy attitude toward turnpikes.

He promised that he would give new life to highway and construction programs if elected.

Crank also said he would not commit himself to any specific pay raises for teachers and criticized Rockefeller and Jim Johnson, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee in 1966, for doing so in 1966.

Crank said Thursday night, in a pretaped telecast, that he would build a $1 million maximum security unit "at no cost to the taxpayer" if he is elected.

Crank did not say where the funds for such a unit would come from, but said "the funds are available now for this construction and they are readily attainable."

The Democratic nominee said "real reform" in the prison system would be concerned first with a maximum security unit. He also criticized the wounding Monday of 24 inmates at Cummins Prison Farm.

"Surely there was an alternative to the random shotgunning of a group of unarmed penned-up men," Crank said.

Prison Supt. Victor C. Urban says the 24 were part of 99 inmates that posed a security hazard at the time.

Crank also theorized that Arkansas would gain $25 million to $35 million annually in tax revenues by persuading tourists to stay in the state for longer periods.

"Presently, about 18 million people visit Arkansas annually," he said. "They stay an average of 3.3 days and their expenditures—coupled with intrastate travel—was a quarter of a billion dollars in 1967. This produced tax revenue of about $18 million."

Two Females in Cabinet

LONDON (AP) — Judith Hart has been named to the Cabinet, giving the British government two female members for the first time.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson selected Mrs. Hart, 44, a sociologist, on Thursday to be in charge of coordinating efforts to overcome the problems of disenchanted youth and the Scots and Welsh who have complained that London has let them down.

She joins Barbara Castle, the employment minister, in the Cabinet.

No Decision to De-escalate Bombings

By GEORGE ESER
Associated Press Writer

VUNG TAU, Vietnam (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today there has been no breakthrough in negotiations with Hanoi for a complete bombing halt of North Vietnam.

Asked how long it would be before there was some news on the proposed bombing halt Thieu replied: "I would like to say like President Johnson, there is no breakthrough yet."

"If Hanoi would like to say it will de-escalate, they have to tell us when and how they will do this. We are waiting for Hanoi to show goodwill," said Thieu.

Thieu was asked repeatedly about a series of meetings earlier this week between him and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, that generated reports of a new peace package proposal sent to Hanoi by Washington. But he declined to disclose any details of the meetings.

Thieu said however that there are "certain things" of which he is not informed by the United States. He added that he is not at liberty to discuss other matters of which he is informed.

After the news conference, a spokesman for Thieu issued this statement:

"The U.S. government is an independent government and cannot be forced by us to keep us informed on everything. The U.S. government cannot force the Vietnamese government to keep the U.S. government informed on everything the Vietnamese government does."

Chinese Detain Soviet Group in Hanoi

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — North Vietnamese police and soldiers freed a group of Soviet citizens in Hanoi who were encircled for 7½ hours by Red Chinese Embassy staffers, the Czechoslovak news agency CTK reported today.

CTK correspondent Jiri Brotanek in Hanoi said the Soviets, who included a four-member delegation of the youth organization Komsomol, were given "lectures" by the Chinese during that time.

The Russians had gone to the embassy Thursday for visas to transit China for their return home.

When they turned up, the Chinese encircled their car and did not let them leave, CTK said, adding that the Soviet charge d'affaires in Hanoi went twice to the North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry, apparently to protest.

After his second visit, the North Vietnamese ordered police and military reinforcements to the vicinity of the Chinese Embassy, the Hanoi dispatch reported.

Czechs Called to Ratify Soviet Pact

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's National Assembly was summoned to a session today to ratify the Soviet-dictated treaty legalizing the occupation status of Russian troops who invaded this country in August.

Details were not made public of the document signed in Prague Wednesday by Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and Czechoslovak Premier Oldrich Cernik. But Czechoslovak sources said the document was far too vague to suit Prague, both on the numbers of troops involved and the duration of their stay.

The agreement provides for a "temporary" stay of Soviet troops, Czechoslovaks said they are resigned to an indefinite occupation. They pointed out that Soviet treaties with Hungary and Poland, signed in 1956, also envisioned "temporary" occupations and the armies are still there.

The Soviet and other Warsaw Pact troops moved into the country to check the liberalization program being pressed by Czechoslovak party and government leaders.
